Work Step by Step. When we want to solve a system of linear equations in an augmented matrix, we want to first put it in a triangular form (which is a term to be replaced in the next section). Then we want to use the leading (from the left) 1 in each row to eliminate the entries within the same column. Since it is already in triangular form, and has already cleared out all but 1 entry on the first row from the right, we must clear out all but 1 entry from the 2nd row from the right.

Slope-intercept form:  $y=mx+b$ . The slope is going upwards, so we know it is positive. We calculate the slope by using the  $\frac{\text{rise}}{\text{run}}$  run method. From point (0,4) to point (2,5), we move up 1 and right 2. So, the slope or  $m$  value is  $\frac{1}{2}$ . The  $y$ -intercept on the graph is at (0,4), so our  $b$  value is 4.
