Misty is the golden foal of a bay filly called the Phantom - because she is uncatchable. The ponies of Assateague Island spend the year running wild on saltgrass and facing storms, then once a year the firefighters of neighbouring Chincoteague Island round them up and swim them across the channel to sell some of the foals.

Like many of the other posters, I read Misty of Chincoteague when I was a child and loved it. I then went on to read all of Marguerite Henry's books. Recently my daughter and her children vacationed in the area of Assateague and Chincoteague Islands. I had forgotten all about the wild horses, but my daughter's experience made me recall the book ...
